Course Description:

Beginning with the contemporary landscape and moving backwards, this course builds the historical knowledge, intercultural understanding, and political principles needed today by citizens of a multi-religious America. The treatment of religions will be guided by a distinctively American combination of principles: unity in diversity, religious liberty, and the non-establishment of religion.

Course Requirements:

Mid-term and Final exams; Religious Site Visit; Presentations in discussion sections.

N.b., As an O Focus Course, 40% of the grade will be based on Oral presentations.

No Prerequisites
